The Dulaney Foundation and Cataract & Refractive Surgery Today would like to invite you to an interactive half-day CME surgical symposium, SOURCE (Superior Outcomes through Refractive and Cataract Education), to be held in New York City on Saturday, June 21, 2008.

This series of regional CME educational programs, supported by an unrestricted grant from Allergan, Inc., is designed to provide cataract and refractive surgeons with balanced, practical information on a wide variety of timely subjects.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- Complications management: capsular tears, vitreous loss, new sutureless pars plana vitrectomy, small-pupil management, iris suturing, keratoconus
- Surgical skills: topography, IOL calculations
- Ocular-surface optimization: dry eye, therapeutics
- Lenticular surgery: astigmatic correction, patient management, new technologies
- Surgical cases presented in 3D utilizing a vision system that will enhance the way microsurgery is performed and taught
- And much more!

Course Description & Target Audience

This CME course will provide cataract and refractive surgeons an unbiased and broad-based view of the latest technology and techniques for anterior segment surgery as well as business perspectives of multifocal IOLs in today's practice. Leading ophthalmologists will demonstrate their surgical techniques and provide opinions on the various modalities of treating cataract and refractive patients. There will also be a significant segment of the program dedicated to surgical complications avoidance and management. The course format will also allow for panel discussion among the faculty and questions from the attendees.

Educational Objectives

Upon successful completion of this activity, physicians should be able to: discuss how to best integrate presbyopia-correcting IOLs into clinical practice; discuss the multitude of products currently available and the pros and cons of each technique and technology, including multifocal and accommodative IOLs and small-pupil management; identify key issues for deciding the best modality of advanced-technology IOLs (aspheric IOLs) for each patient; learn technique refinements for cataract incision and phaco procedures; manage astigmatism when performing cataract and refractive surgery, including toric IOLs and limbal relaxing incisions; gain insights on complications avoidance and management; and evaluate case studies in cataract and refractive surgery.

Accreditation and Joint Sponsorship

This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the Essential Areas and Policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) through the joint sponsorship of The Dulaney Foundation, Bryn Mawr Communications Group LLC, and Bryn Mawr Communications LLC, publisher of Cataract & Refractive Surgery Today. The Dulaney Foundation is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing education for physicians. The Dulaney Foundation designates this educational activity for a maximum of five (5) AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™.
